Preface.

In setting forth the rules relating to admission to the bar of the United States Courts and the Courts of the several States and Territories, we have given the general requirements, rather than the forms prescribed in applying for examination and admission.

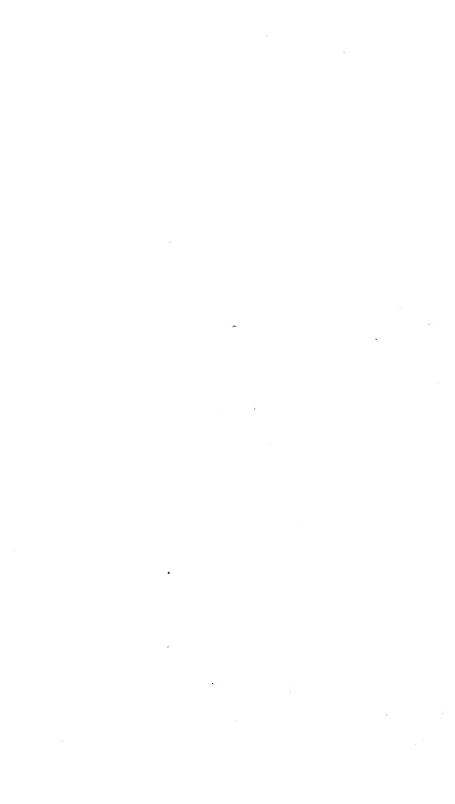

Reference is made in each instance to the publications in which the rules are set forth in full.

In most states pamphlets containing complete rules, forms to be used, etc., may be obtained from the clerk of court or the secretary of the Board of Bar Examiners.

In this edition we have added information as to the times and places of examinations and the person to whom application must be made.

We have also added valuable information in regard to the local Reports of each State, and other law books, especially valuable to the lawyer opening a new office.

Recommendations

Of the Committee on Legal Education of the American Bar Association Respecting Requirements for Admission to the Bar.

In 1897 the Committee on Legal Education of the American Bar Association recommended the following provisions "as forming a consistent system that shall both protect the profession and guide the student."

Citizenship-Age-Character.

No one should be admitted to the bar unless he is of good moral character, is twenty-one years of age, and is a citizen of the state.

Registration.

Upon beginning professional study a student should register his name in the office of a clerk of a court of record or in a law school that is incorporated or is a department of an incorporated university.

Upon petition, the law examiners should relieve from the requirements as to registration a candidate whose law studies began while he was not a citizen of the state; but they should not grant relief upon terms that would give such a candidate a preference over ordinary candidates.

General Education.

Prior to registration a student should prove that he has received at least the equivalent of a high school education, such proof being made by filing certificates or by passing examinations, as may be determined by the law examiners.

Term of Study.

A candidate should not be admitted to the bar until the end of three full calendar years of law study.

Board of Examiners.

In all parts of the state the requirements for admission to the bar should be uniform, and should be administered by a State Board of Law Examiners.

Law examiners should be appointed by the court of last resort, and should serve for three or more years, part of the number being appointed each year.

The law examiners should recommend an appropriate order of study, and should designate the statutes, leading cases, and practical forms with which students must become familiar, and in all other practicable ways should aid candidates to study in a systematic and useful manner.

Examination-Regulations-Scope, etc.

No candidate should be admitted to the bar without examination, except as hereinafter provided.

Law examinations should be held at such times and places as the court of last resort may see fit; due announcement being made as to times, places, and subjects.

Law examinations should consist chiefly of written answers to printed questions.

Law examinations should be chiefly devoted to solving and discussing legal problems similar to those arising in office practice and in litigation; and questions should not be so framed as to admit "ves" and "no" answers.

A candidate should be permitted, if he desires, to divide the law examination into two parts; the first part to cover the more elementary subjects and to be taken not earlier than one year after registration, and the second part to cover the more advanced subjects and to be taken not earlier than three years after registration.

Admission of Attorneys from Other Jurisdictions.

Upon petition, the law examiners should relieve from all requirements, save the requirements as to character, age, and citizenship, a candidate who is already a member of the bar of a state in which there are equivalent requirements for admission, or in which, after admission, he has been in active practice for five years.

Code of Ethics

Adopted by American Bar Association Annotated to Cases in Point

1. The Duty of the Lawyer to the Courts.

It is the duty of the lawyer to maintain towards the Courts a respectful attitude, not for the sake of the temporary incumbent of the judicial office, but for the maintenance of its supreme importance. Judges, not being wholly free to defend themselves, are peculiarly entitled to receive the support of the Bar against unjust criticism and clamor. Whenever there is proper ground for serious complaint of a judicial officer, it is the right and duty of the lawyer to submit his grievances to the proper authorities. In such cases, but not otherwise, such charges should be encouraged and the person making them should be protected.

Annot.

Attacking or criticising court as ground for disbarment, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 59, 60; Dec. Dig. § 43.

Attacking or criticising court as constituting contempt, see Contempt, Cent. Dig. \S 6–10; Dec. Dig. \S 6.

Suspension or removal of judge and liability of judge for official acts, see Judges, Cent. Dig. §§ 42-45, 165-180; Dec. Dig. §§ 11, 36, 37.

Remarks and conduct of judge on trial of case in general, see Criminal Law, Cent. Dig. §§ 1520–1535; Dec. Dig. §§ 654–658; Trial, Cent. Dig. §§ 80–84; Dec. Dig. § 29.

2. The Selection of Judges.

It is the duty of the Bar to endeavor to prevent political considerations from out-weighing judicial fitness in the selection of Judges. It should protest earnestly and actively against the appointment or election of those who are unsuitable for the Bench; and it should strive to have elevated thereto only those willing to forego other employments, whether of a business, political or other character, which may embarrass their free and fair consideration of questions before them for decision. The aspiration of lawyers for judicial position should be governed by an impartial estimate of their ability to add honor to the office and not by a desire for the distinction the position may bring to themselves.

Annot.

Appointment, eligibility, and qualification of judges, see Judges. Cent. Dig. §§ 1-23; Dec. Dig. §§ 1-5.

3. Attempts to Exert Personal Influence on the Court.

Marked attention and unusual hospitality, on the part of a lawyer to a Judge, uncalled for by the personal relations of the parties, subject both the Judge and the lawyer to misconstructions of motive and should be avoided. A lawyer should not communicate or argue privately with the Judge as to the merits of a pending cause, and he deserves rebuke and denunciation for any device or attempt to gain from a Judge special personal consideration or favor. A self-respecting independence in the discharge of professional duty, without denial or diminution of the courtesy and respect due the Judge's station, is the only proper foundation for cordial personal and official relations between Bench and Bar.

Annot.

Attempting to influence court as constituting contempt justifying disbarment of attorney, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. § 60.

4. When Counsel for an Indigent Prisoner.

A lawyer assigned as counsel for an indigent prisoner ought not to ask to be excused for any trivial reason, and should always exert his best efforts in his behalf.

Annot. ~

Assignment as counsel by the court, and skill and care required of attorney, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 31, 218; Dec. Dig. § 23; Criminal Law, Cent. Dig. §§ 1500-1505; Dec. Dig. § 641.

5. The Defense or Prosecution of Those Accused of Crime.

It is the right of the lawyer to undertake the defense of a person accused of crime, regardless of his personal opinion as to the guilt of the accused; otherwise innocent persons, victims only of suspicious circumstances, might be denied proper defense. Having undertaken such defense, the lawyer is bound by all fair and honorable means, to present every defense that the law of the land permits, to the end that no person may be deprived of life or liberty, but by due process of law.

The primary duty of a lawyer engaged in public prosecution is not to convict, but to see that justice is done. The suppression of facts or the secreting of witnesses capable of establishing the innocence of the accused is highly reprehensible.

Annot.

Defense of criminal in general, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 31, 218; Dec. Dig. § 23; Criminal Law. Cent. Dig. §§ 1496-1506, Dec. Dig. § 641.

Misconduct of counsel, ground for new trial, see Criminal Law, Cent. Dig. §§ 2197-2201; Dec. Dig. § 919.

Functions of office and powers and duties of prosecuting attorneys, see District and Prosecuting Attorneys, Cent. Dig. §§ 1, 34-37; Dec. Dig. §§ 1, 8, 9.

6. Adverse Influences and Conflicting Interests.

It is the duty of a lawyer at the time of retainer to disclose to the client all the circumstances of his relations to the parties, and any interest in or connection with the controversy, which might influence the client in the selection of counsel.

It is unprofessional to represent conflicting interests, except by express consent of all concerned given after a full disclosure of the facts. Within the meaning of this canon, a lawyer represents conflicting interests when, in behalf of one client, it is his duty to contend for that which duty to another client requires him to oppose.

The obligation to represent the client with undivided fidelity and not to divulge his secrets or confidences forbids also the subsequent acceptance of retainers or employment from others in matters adversely affecting any interest of the client with respect to which confidence has been reposed.

Annot.

Acting for adverse parties in different capacities or receiving compensation from adverse party, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 27–30, 208, 229, 307; Dec. Dig. §§ 19–22, 113, 130.

7. Professional Colleagues and Conflicts of Opinion.

A client's proffer of assistance of additional counsel should not be regarded as evidence of want of confidence, but the matter should be left to the determination of the client. A lawyer should decline association as colleague if it is objectionable to the original counsel, but if the lawyer first retained is relieved, another may come into the case.

When lawyers jointly associated in a cause cannot agree as to any matter vital to the interest of the client, the conflict of opinion should be frankly stated to him for his final determination. His decision should be accepted unless the nature of the difference makes it impracticable for the lawyer whose judgment has been overruled to co-operate effectively. In this event it is his duty to ask the client to relieve him.

Efforts, direct or indirect, in any way to encroach upon the business of another lawyer, are unworthy of those who should be brethren at the Bar; but, nevertheless, it is the right of any lawyer, without fear or favor, to give proper advice to those seeking relief against unfaithful or neglectful counsel, generally after communication with the lawyer of whom the complaint is made.

Annot.

Change and substitution of attorneys, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 110-131; Dec. Dig. §§ 75, 76.

8. Advising Upon the Merits of a Client's Cause.

A lawyer should endeavor to obtain full knowledge of his client's cause before advising thereon, and he is bound to give a candid opinion of the merits and probable result of pending or contemplated litigation. The miscarriages to which justice is subject, by reason of surprises and disappointments in evidence and witnesses, and through mistakes of juries and errors of Courts, even though only occasional, admonish lawyers to beware of bold and confident assurances to clients, especially where the employment may depend upon such assurance. Whenever the controversy will admit of fair adjustment, the client should be advised to avoid or to end the litigation.

Annot.

Negligence of attorney in advising client, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 221, 222; Dec. Dig. § 109.

9. Negotiations With Opposite Party.

A lawyer should not in any way communicate upon the subject of controversy with a party represented by counsel; much less should he undertake to negotiate or compromise the matter with him, but should deal only with his counsel. It is incumbent upon the lawyer most particularly to avoid everything that may tend to mislead a party not represented by counsel, and he should not undertake to advise him as to the law.

Annot.

Duties and liabilities of attorney to adverse parties and third persons, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 38, 39, 61; Dec. Dig. §§ 26, 38.

10. Acquiring Interest in Litigation.

The lawyer should not purchase any interest in the subjectmatter of the litigation which he is conducting.

Annot.

Right of attorney to purchase demands for suit, and effect thereof as ground for disbarment, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 26, 51, 239–263; Dec. Dig. §§ 18, 38, 122–125.

Champertous agreements, see Champerty and Maintenance, Cent. Dig. §§ 36-44, 47-51; Dec. Dig. § 5 (6, 8).

11. Dealing With Trust Property.

Money of the client or other trust property coming into the possession of the lawyer should be reported promptly, and except with the client's knowledge and consent should not be commingled with his private property or be used by him.

Annot.

Authority of attorney as to disposition of client's money or other property, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. § 143; Dec. Dig. § 80.

Accounting and payment to client, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 232-238; Dec. Dig. §§ 116-121.

12. Fixing the Amount of the Fee.

In fixing fees, lawyers should avoid charges which overestimate their advice and services, as well as those which undervalue them. A client's ability to pay cannot justify a charge in excess of the value of the service, though his poverty may require a less charge, or even none at all. The reasonable requests of brother lawyers, and of their widows and orphans without ample means, should receive special and kindly consideration.

In determining the amount of the fee, it is proper to consider: (1) the time and labor required, the novelty and difficulty of the questions involved and the skill requisite properly to conduct the cause; (2) whether the acceptance of employment in the particular case will preclude the lawyer's appearance for others in cases likely to arise out of the transaction, and in which there is a reasonable expectation that otherwise he would be employed, or will involve the loss of other business while employed in the particular case or antagonisms with other clients; (3) the customary charges of the Bar for similar services; (4) the amount involved in the controversy and the benefits resulting to the client from the services; (5) the contingency or the certainty of the compensation; and (6) the character of the employment, whether casual or for an established and constant client. No one of these considerations in itself is controlling. They are mere guides in ascertaining the real value of the service.

In fixing fees it should never be forgotten that the profession is a branch of the administration of justice and not a mere money-getting trade.

Annot.

Right of attorney to compensation, contracts therefor and value and amount thereof, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 292-350; Dec. Dig. §§ 130-145, 151, 152, 154, 155.

13. Contingent Fees.

Contingent fees, where sanctioned by law, should be under the supervision of the Court, in order that clients may be protected from unjust charges.

Annot.

Validity and effect of agreement for contingent fee, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 351-357; Dec. Dig. §§ 146-150.

Agreement for contingent fee as constituting champerty, see Champerty and Maintenance, Cent. Dig. §§ 22-51; Dec. Dig. § 5.

14. Suing a Client for a Fee.

Controversies with clients concerning compensation are to be avoided by the lawyer so far as shall be compatible with his self-respect and with his right to receive reasonable recompense for his services; and lawsuits with clients should be resorted to only to prevent injustice, imposition or fraud.

Annat.

Right of action for fees, defenses and practice, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 258-377; Dec. Dig. §§ 157-169.

15. How Far a Lawyer May Go in Supporting a Client's Cause.

Nothing operates more certainly to create or to foster popular prejudice against lawyers as a class, and to deprive the profession of that full measure of public esteem and confidence which belongs to the proper discharge of its duties than does the false claim, often set up by the unscrupulous in defense of questionable transactions, that it is the duty of the lawyer to do whatever may enable him to succeed in winning his client's cause

It is improper for a lawyer to assert in argument his personal belief in his client's innocence or in the justice of his cause.

The lawyer owes "entire devotion to the interest of the client, warm zeal in the maintenance and defense of his rights and the exertion of his utmost learning and ability," to the end that nothing be taken or be withheld from him, save by the rules of law, legally applied. No fear of judicial disfavor or public unpopularity should restrain him from the full discharge of his duty. In the judicial forum the client is entitled to the benefit of any and every remedy and defense that is authorized by the law of the land, and he may expect his lawyer to assert every such remedy or defense. But it is steadfastly to be borne in mind that the great trust of the lawyer is to be performed within and not without the bounds of the law. The office of attorney does not permit, much less does it demand of him for any client, violation of law or any manner of fraud or chicane. He must obey his own conscience and not that of his client.

Annot.

Nature of office of attorney and duty to follow client's instructions, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 21, 220; Dec. Dig. §§ 14, 108.

Argument and conduct of counsel, see Criminal Law, Cent. Dig. §§ 1655-1693; Dec. Dig. §§ 699-730; Trial, Cent. Dig. §§ 267-316; Dec. Dig. §§ 106-133.

16. Restraining Clients from Improprieties.

A lawyer should use his best efforts to restrain and to prevent his clients from doing those things which the lawyer himself ought not to do, particularly with reference to their conduct towards Courts, judicial officers, jurors, witnesses and suitors. If a client persists in such wrong-doing the lawyer should terminate their relation.

Annot.

Termination of relation by withdrawal of attorney, see Attorney and Client. Cent. Dig. § 121; Dec. Dig. § 76 (1).

17. Ill Feeling and Personalities Between Advocates.

Clients, not lawyers, are the litigants. Whatever may be the ill feeling existing between clients, it should not be allowed to influence counsel in their conduct and demeanor toward each other or toward suitors in the case. All personalities between counsel should be scrupulously avoided. In the trial of a cause it is indecent to allude to the personal history or the personal peculiarities and idiosyncrasies of counsel on the other side. Personal colloquies between counsel which cause delay and promote unseemly wrangling should also be carefully avoided.

Annot.

Conduct toward other attorneys, ground for disbarment, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. § 61; Dec.*Dig. § 38.

Use of abusive language and retaliatory statements and remarks by attorneys, see Trial, Cent. Dig. §§ 308, 310; Dec. Dig. §§ 126, 129.

18. Treatment of Witnesses and Litigants.

A lawyer should always treat adverse witnesses and suitors with fairness and due consideration, and he should never minister to the malevolence or prejudices of a client in the trial or conduct of a cause. The client cannot be made the keeper of the lawyer's conscience in professional matters. He has no right to demand that his counsel shall abuse the opposite party or indulge in offensive personalities. Improper speech is not excusable on the ground that it is what the client would say if speaking in his own behalf.

Annot.

Duties and liabilities to adverse parties and to third persons, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. § 38; Dec. Dig. § 26.

Use of abusive language and retaliatory statements or remarks, see Trial, Cent. Dig. §§ 308, 310; Dec. Dig. §§ 126, 129.

19. Appearance of Lawyer as Witness for His Client.

When a lawyer is a witness for his client, except as to merely formal matters, such as the attestation or custody of an instrument and the like, he should leave the trial of the case to other counsel. Except when essential to the ends of justice, a lawyer should avoid testifying in Court in behalf of his client.

unnet.

Competency of attorneys as witnesses, see Witnesses, Cent. Dig. §§ 79, 121–123; Dec. Dig. § 67.

20. Newspaper Discussion of Pending Litigation.

Newspaper publications by a lawyer as to pending or anticipated litigation may interfere with a fair trial in the Courts and otherwise prejudice the due administration of justice. Generally they are to be condemned. If the extreme circumstances of a particular case justify a statement to the public, it is unprofessional to make it anonymously. An exparte reference to the facts should not go beyond quotation from the records and papers on file in the Court; but even in extreme cases it is better to avoid any exparte statement.

Annot.

Publications relating to pending proceedings as constituting contempt, see Contempt. Cent. Dig. §§ 15, 16; Dec. Dig. § 9.

21. Punctuality and Expedition.

It is the duty of the lawyer not only to his client, but also to the Courts and to the public, to be punctual in attendance, and to be concise and direct in the trial and disposition of causes.

Annot.

Absence of counsel as ground for continuance, see Continuance. Cent. Dig. § 51; Dec. Dig. § 20; Criminal Law, Cent. Dig. §§ 1313, 1320; Dec. Dig. §§ 587, 593.

Absence of counsel as ground for new trial, see Criminal Law, Ceut. Dig. § 2205; Dec. Dig. § 920; New Trial, Cent. Dig. §§ 173, 174; Dec. Dig. § 87.

22. Candor and Fairness.

The conduct of the lawyer before the Court and with other lawyers should be characterized by candor and fairness.

It is not candid or fair for the lawyer knowingly to misquote the contents of a paper, the testimony of a witness, the language or the argument of opposing counsel, or the language of a decision or a text-book; or with knowledge of its invalidity, to cite as authority a decision that has been overruled, or a statute that has been repealed; or in argument to assert as a fact that which has not been proved, or in those jurisdictions where a side has the opening and closing arguments to mislead his opponent by concealing or withholding positions in his opening argument upon which his side then intends to rely.

It is unprofessional and dishonorable to deal other than candidly with the facts in taking the statements of witnesses, in drawing affidavits and other documents, and in the presentation of causes.

A lawyer should not offer evidence, which he knows the Court should reject, in order to get the same before the jury by argument for its admissibility, nor should he address to the Judge arguments upon any point not properly calling for determination by him. Neither should he introduce into an argument, addressed to the Court, remarks or statements intended to influence the jury or bystanders.

These and all kindred practices are unprofessional and unworthy of an officer of the law charged, as is the lawyer, with the duty of aiding in the administration of justice.

Annot.

Argument and conduct of counsel in general, see Criminal Law, Cent. Dig. §§ 1655-1693: Dec. Dig. §§ 699-730; Trial, Cent. Dig. §§ 267-309; Dec. Dig. §§ 106-133.

Regulation of professional conduct of attorneys and conduct ground for disbarment, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 45, 51, 53, 54, 61; Dec. Dig. §§ 32, 38, 41, 42.

Conduct constituting contempt, see Contempt, Cent. Dig. § 21; Dec. Dig. § 10.

23. Attitude Toward Jury.

All attempts to curry favor with juries by fawning, flattery or pretended solicitude for their personal comfort are unprofessional. Suggestions of counsel, looking to the comfort or convenience of jurors, and propositions to dispense with argument, should be made to the Court out of the jury's hearing. A lawyer must never converse privately with jurors about the case; and both before and during the trial he should avoid communicating with them, even as to matters foreign to the cause.

Annot.

Argument and conduct of counsel in general, see Criminal Law, Cent. Dig. §§ 1655-1687; Dec. Dig. §§ 699-726; Trial, Cent. Dig. §§ 267-316, 729; Dec. Dig. §§ 106-133, 305.

Argument and conduct ground for new trial, see Criminal Law, Cent. Dig. §§ 2197-2201, 2255, 2265; Dec. Dig. §§ 919, 932; New Trial, Cent. Dig. §§ 43, 44, 92, 97-99; Dec. Dig. §§ 29, 47, 49.

24. Right of Lawyer to Control the Incidents of the Trial.

As to incidental matters pending the trial, not affecting the merits of the cause, or working substantial prejudice to the rights of the client, such as forcing the opposite lawyer to trial when he is under affliction or bereavement; forcing the trial on a particular day to the injury of the opposite lawyer when no harm will result from a trial at a different time; agreeing to an extension of time for signing a bill of exceptions, cross-interrogatories and the like, the lawyer must be allowed to judge. In such matters no client has a right to demand that his counsel shall be illiberal, or that he do anything therein repugnant to his own sense of honor and propriety.

Annot.

Authority of attorney as to conduct of litigation, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 161-189; Dec. Dig. §§ 87-96.

Duty of attorney to follow instructions of client, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. § 220; Dec. Dig. § 108.

Taking Technical Advantage of Opposite Counsel—Agreements With Him.

A lawyer should not ignore known customs or practice of the Bar or of a particular Court, even when the law permits, without giving timely notice to the opposing counsel. As far as possible, important agreements, affecting the rights of clients, should be reduced to writing; but it is dishonorable to avoid performance of an agreement fairly made because it is not reduced to writing, as required by rules of Court.

Annot.

Binding effect of agreements between counsel, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. § 171.

Validity of oral stipulations, see Stipulations, Cent. Dig. §§ 5-43. 63; Dec. Dig. §§ 6, 19.

26. Professional Advocacy Other Than Before Courts.

A lawyer openly and in his true character may render professional services before legislative or other bodies, regarding proposed legislation and in advocacy of claims before departments of government, upon the same principles of ethics which justify his appearance before the Courts; but it is unprofessional for a lawyer so engaged to conceal his attorneyship, or to employ secret personal solicitations, or to use means other than those addressed to the reason and understanding to influence action.

Annot.

Validity of lobbying contracts, see Contracts, Cent. Dig. §§ 587-589; Dec. Dig. § 126.

27. Advertising, Direct or Indirect.

The most worthy and effective advertisement possible, even for a young lawyer, and especially with his brother lawyers, is the establishment of a well-merited reputation for professional capacity and fidelity to trust. This cannot be forced, but must be the outcome of character and conduct. The publication or circulation of ordinary simple business cards, being a matter of personal taste or local custom, and sometimes of convenience, is not per se improper. But solicitation of business by circulars or advertisements, or by personal communications or interviews, not warranted by personal relations, is unprofessional. It is equally unprofessional to procure business by indirection through touters of any kind, whether allied real estate firms or trust companies advertising to secure the drawing of deeds or wills or offering retainers in exchange for executorships or trusteeships to be influenced by the lawyer. Indirect advertisement for business by furnishing or inspiring newspaper comments concerning causes in which the lawyer has been or is engaged, or concerning the manner of their conduct, the magnitude of the interests involved, the importance of the lawyer's positions, and all other like self-laudation, defy the traditions and lower the tone of our high calling, and are intolerable.

Annot.

Advertising to secure diverces as ground for distarment, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. § 51; Dec. Dig. § 38.

28. Stirring up Litigation, Directly or Through Agents.

It is unprofessional for a lawyer to volunteer advice to bring a lawsuit, except in rare cases where ties of blood, relationship or trust make it his duty to do so. Stirring up strife and litigation is not only unprofessional, but it is indictable at common law. It is disreputable to hunt up defects in titles or other causes of action and inform thereof in order to be employed to bring suit, or to breed litigation by seeking out those with claims for personal injuries or those having any other grounds of action in order to secure them as clients, or to employ agents or runners for like purposes, or to pay or reward, directly or indirectly, those who bring or influence the bringing of such cases to his office, or to remunerate policemen, court or prison officials, physicians, hospital attachés or others who may succeed, under the guise of giving disinterested friendly advice, in influencing the criminal, the sick and the injured, the ignorant or others, to seek his professional services. A duty to the public and to the profession devolves upon every member of the Bar, having knowledge of such practices upon the part of any practitioner, immediately to inform thereof to the end that the offender may be disbarred.

Barratry in general, see Champerty and Maintenance, Cent. Dig. §§ 1-51; Dec. Dig. §§ 1-6.

29. Upholding the Honor of the Profession.

Lawyers should expose without fear or favor before the proper tribunals corrupt or dishonest conduct in the profession, and should accept without hesitation employment against a member of the Bar who has wronged his client. The counsel upon the trial of a cause in which perjury has been committed owe it to the profession and to the public to bring the matter to the knowledge of the prosecuting authorities. The lawyer should aid in guarding the Bar against the admission to the profession of candidates unfit or unqualified because deficient in either moral character or education. He should strive at all times to uphold the honor and to maintain the dignity of the profession and to improve not only the law but the administration of justice.

Annot.

Learning and good character as necessary qualifications for admission to practice law, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 4, 5; Dec. Dig. § 4.

Right of attorney to institute disharment proceedings against brother attorney, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. § 67; Dec. Dig. § 51.

30. Justifiable and Unjustifiable Litigations.

The lawyer must decline to conduct a civil cause or to make a defense when convinced that it is intended merely to harass or to injure the opposite party or to work oppression or wrong. But otherwise it is his right, and, having accepted retainer, it becomes his duty to insist upon the judgment of the Court as to the legal merits of his client's claim. His appearance in Court should be deemed equivalent to an assertion on his honor that in his opinion his client's case is one proper for judicial determination.

Unnot.

Bringing fictitious or unauthorized action as constituting contempt, see Contempt, Cent. Dlg. § 24.

31. Responsibility for Litigation.

No lawyer is obliged to act either as adviser or advocate for every person who may wish to become his client. He has the right to decline employment. Every lawyer upon his own responsibility must decide what business he will accept as counsel, what causes he will bring into Court for plaintiffs, what cases he will contest in Court for defendants. The responsibility for advising questionable transactions, for bringing questionable suits, for urging questionable defenses, is the lawyer's responsibility. He cannot escape it by urging as an excuse that he is only following his client's instructions.

Annot.

Duties and liabilities of attorney to adverse party and third persons, and instructions of client as excuse for conduct, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 38, 39, 220; Dec. Dig. §§ 26, 108.

Nature of attorney's duty, and skill and care required in conduct of business, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 217, 218; Dec. Dig. §§ 106, 107.

32. The Lawyer's Duty in Its Last Analysis.

No client, corporate or individual, however powerful, nor any cause, civil or political, however important, is entitled to receive, nor should any lawyer render, any service or advice involving disloyalty to the law whose ministers we are, or disrespect of the judicial office, which we are bound to uphold, or corruption of any person or persons exercising a public office or private trust, or deception or betrayal of the public. When rendering any such improper service or advice, the lawyer invites and merits stern and just condemnation. Correspondingly, he advances the honor of his profession and the best interests of his client when he renders service or gives advice tending to impress upon the client and his undertaking exact compliance with the strictest principles of moral law. He must also observe and advise his client to observe the statute law, though until a statute shall have been construed and interpreted by competent adjudication, he is free and is entitled to advise as to its validity and as to what he conscientiously believes to be its just meaning and extent. But above all a lawyer will find his highest honor in a deserved reputation for fidelity to private trust and to public duty, as an honest man and as a patriotic and loyal citizen.

Annot.

Duties, privileges, disabilities, and liabilities of attorneys in general, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 21, 26–29, 217–291; Dec. Dig. §§ 18–21, 106–129.

RULES

ADMISSION TO THE BAR

(1)*

United States Courts.

Supreme Court.

It shall be requisite to the admission of attorneys or counselors to practice in this court that they shall have been such for three years past in the Supreme Courts of the states to which they respectively belong, and that their private and professional character shall appear to be fair. The prescribed oath shall be taken.

Sup. Ct. Rule (3 Sup. Ct. Rep. v).

Circuit Courts of Appeals.

Although the rule of the Circuit Courts of Appeals governing the admission of attorneys, as adopted primarily, provides that, to become eligible, the applicant shall have been admitted to the Supreme Court or any Circuit Court of the United States, and shall have taken the prescribed oath, it has since been changed to some extent in several of the circuits. In the Third circuit. the clause requiring avowal of the oath has been annulled, as respects attorneys of the Circuit Court of the Third circuit; in the Fourth circuit, a fee of $5 is required; in the Fifth and Sixth circuits, a fee of $10 is required; in the Eighth circuit, former admission to the highest court of any state within that circuit is sufficient qualification; and in the Ninth circuit, former admission to a Circuit Court is limited to admission to a Circuit Court of the Ninth circuit, and is enlarged to the extent that former admission in the highest court of any state or territory shall constitute qualification.

C. C. A. Rule and amendments thereto 150 Fed. xxvii, lxi, lxvii, lxxviii, cxi, cxxvi.

Circuit and District Courts.

The rules for admission to these courts vary. Generally attorneys who have been admitted to practice in other United States courts or the highest courts of a state or territory are eligible.

FEDERAL COURT DECISIONS.

U. S. Supreme Court.

A complete set of the United States Supreme Court Reports (1790 to 1908) consists of 210 volumes. Everything subsequent to vol. 105 is covered by the Supreme Court Reporter (of the National Reporter System) in a set of 28 volumes. The Supreme Court Reporter makes currently one volume a year, covering all the current decisions filed by the court, and is supplied to subscribers in advance sheets as published; these being displaced at the end of the year by a bound volume which contains everything in the official edition, and is equipped with a table giving the official page references.

There are other editions of the United States Reports,—one giving vols. 1 to 210 in 52 books, and another giving vols. 1 to 210 in about 167 books.

U. S. Circuit Courts of Appeals.

These courts were established in 1891, and all opinions from the beginning have been reported currently in the Federal Reporter. (See below.) The back volumes of this set, therefore, incorporate all the reported decisions from these nine courts, and the current numbers give the first report of the current decisions.

The decisions are reported separately in the C. C. A. Reports. of which 86 volumes are now completed.

U. S. Circuit and District Courts.

The early decisions of these courts were never systematically reported until they were gathered together for the elaborate reprint known as the Federal Cases. This includes all decisions from the establishment of the courts, 1789 to 1880, including all cases reported in the original Reports or in contemporary journals, etc., and also thousands of cases never before reported. They are arranged alphabetically, show every known citation, and are fully annotated. The set makes 30 books and a digest.

From 1880 the decisions of these courts have been systematically and currently reported in the Federal Reporter, which now (1909) has completed 164 volumes. This is the only publication which reports these important cases systematically, and it is practically the official organ of the courts. The current volumes are supplied to subscribers first in weekly advance sheets, which are afterwards displaced by the bound volumes. This set connects with the Federal Cases, the two series making a complete record of the U. S. Circuit and District Court decisions.

In 1891 the scope of the publication was extended to include the newly-established Circuit Courts of Appeals.

years from California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, Washington, Wyoming, and all decisions of Arizona and Oklahoma. The tables of cross-citations furnished with the Pacific make it a simple matter to find the cases, even if cited by the State Report page and volume. Kentucky.

Citizenship-Age-Character.

The applicant shall be 21 years of age, and shall file with his petition the certificate of the county court of the county in which he resides, stating that he is a person of honesty, probity, and good demeanor.

Examination-Regulations-Scope-Fee.

After receipt of the certificate of the county court, the candidate shall, at least ten days before the beginning of the next regular term, file with the clerk of the circuit court of any county in a circuit court district in which the applicant does not reside, a written application for a license, addressed to the judge and accompanied by the certificate above referred to. The examination shall be set for some day of the current term. Each applicant shall be examined by the circuit judge and at least two lawyers in Equity Jurisprudence, Common Law, Constitutional Law, both Federal and State, Criminal Law, Torts, Real Property, Contracts, Pleading, Evidence, Negotiable Instruments, and Public and Private Corporations. If a general average of 75 per cent. is received, the license shall be issued upon the payment of the regular fees to the clerk. This license entitles the holder to practice in all the courts of the state.

Admission of Attorneys from Other Jurisdictions.

Under Acts 1902, p. 45, §§ 1–9, attorneys from other jurisdictions are not admitted without examination on presentation of certificate, as heretofore, but must comply with the same rules as are prescribed for applicants residing in the state. This act, however, does not prevent a nonresident attorney in good standing from appearing and practicing in a case in which he may be employed. Such attorneys may be admitted to practice for the time and purpose of such case by appearing in, and being introduced to, the court. No oath is administered.

Miscellancous.

No special license is required to be admitted to practice in the Court of Appeals. It is only necessary that attorneys in good standing, residents of the state, appear in open court and take the oaths prescribed by the Constitution and laws of the commonwealth of Kentucky.

Monroe (Ben.), 18 vols.

Metcalfe, 4 vols.

Duvall, 2 vols.

Bush, 14 vols.

Kentucky, vols. 78 to 125.

These by no means represent all of the Kentucky decisions, however. The Southwestern Reporter, 114 vols., contains, in addition to all of the decisions in Kentucky Reports, vols. 85 to 125, several thousand decisions handed down during the period covered by these reports, and which, by the system of selection in vogue, have not been, and will not be, published in the State Reports. In addition to these, there are upward of 2,000 Kentucky decisions in the Southwestern, which have been handed down subsequent to the decisions reported in vol. 125, Kentucky, and considerably less than one-third of these are marked "To be officially reported." To have all of the decisions of one's own state is an absolute necessity; hence the general use of the Southwestern Reporter in Kentucky.

In addition to the Kentucky decisions, the set contains all decisions for the last 23 years from Arkansas, Indian Territory, Missouri, Tennessee, and Texas. The tables of cross-citations furnished with the Southwestern make it a simple matter to find the cases, even if cited by the State Report page and volume. The set sells at but a fraction of the cost of the corresponding State Reports. Write us for prices and full information.

The application shall be made to the clerk, and referred by him to the court, and passed upon by the court through the committee of examiners, who shall test each applicant separately upon the subjects of Story on the Constitution, Vattel's Law of Nations or Wheaton's Elements of International Law, the History of the Civil Law in Louisiana, the Louisiana Civil Code, the Code of Practice, statutes of the state of a general nature, the Institutes of Justinian, Domat's Civil Law or some satisfactory equivalent for Domat, Pothier's Treatise on Obligations. Blackstone's Commentaries (fourth book), Kent's Commentaries, Smith on Mercantile Law, Wood on Insurance, Story or Parsons on Notes, Daniel on Negotiable Instruments. Greenleaf, Starkie, or Phillips on Evidence, Russell on Crimes, Bishop on Criminal Procedure, and the Jurisprudence of Louisiana as settled by the decisions of the Supreme Court. candidate must have a knowledge of the history and jurisdiction of the federal courts, and to that end must be read in Foster's Federal Practice, Story's or Daniel's Equity Jurisprudence, Parsons' or Benedict's Maritime Law or Conkling's Admiralty, Wharton's Conflict of Laws, and Dillon on Municipal Corporations. On the production of a certificate from the committee that the candidate has been examined by them upon the above works, and that he, in their opinion, is qualified for admission to the bar, the court will admit him to a public examination, and, if such examination is satisfactory, a license will be granted and the prescribed oath administered. A fee of $10 shall be paid to the clerk issuing the license. Applicants who have been rejected shall not be re-examined or admitted to practice for six months after such rejection, and a new application and certificate of competency from the committee shall be required in such cases.

Admission of Attorneys from Other Jurisdictions.

Miscellaneous.

There are four committees of examination, located, respectively at New Orleans, Monroe, Opelousas, and Shreveport. Applications should in all instances be filed with the clerk of the Supreme Court and by him referred to the committee exercising jurisdiction in the district of applicant's residence. The several committees will meet when summoned by their respective chairmen. The public examination by the court will be held on Monday of the first court week in each month of the session.

Under Acts 1894, p. 157, women who have graduated from a law school in this state are entitled to admission to practice.

Manning's Unrep. Cas.

The early volumes of the Louisiana Reports, however, have long been out of print, and are very scarce and expensive. This situation has worked the greatest inconvenience to the bench and bar for years past, and, in recognition of the general demand for a new and complete edition of these Reports, we have undertaken the publication of a complete and annotated Reprint of the Louisiana Reports, to cover the following volumes: Martin (O. S.) 1–12; Martin (N. S.) 1–8; Louisiana, 19 vols.; Robinson, 12 vols.; Louisiana Annual, vols. 1–48;

Manning's Unreported Cases—a total of 100 original volumes, to be bound in 55 books, beginning with vol. 48 La. Ann. and working backward. Everything in the original Reports, including the paging, will be preserved. Full annotations will be added, showing where each case has been subsequently cited by the Louisiana Supreme Court, as well as prior and subsequent reports of the same case, and also showing disposition of each case that has gone to the Supreme Court of the United States. Annotations to the Century Digest will also be made, showing, in connection with each case, the exact places in the Century Digest where the cognate authorities have been collected and compared, thus bringing together all the law applicable to any particular case. References to the annotations in the American Decisions and American Reports will also be added. This Reprint will be sold in complete sets only. Books 37 to 55 are now issued, covering vols, 30 to 48 Louisiana Annual. Detailed information regarding this Reprint will be sent on request.

The Southern Reporter, 48 vols., contains all decisions in Louisiana Annuals, 38 to 52, and Louisiana Reports, 104 to 121, and, in addition, all decisions for the last 22 years of Alabama, Florida, and Mississippi. The tables of cross-citations furnished with the Southern make it a simple matter to find the cases, even if cited by the State Report page and volume. The set sells at but a fraction of the cost of the corresponding State Reports. We publish an edition of Louisiana Reports, commencing with the 49th Annual, known as the "N. R. S. Ed." Beginning with vol. 109 our edition became the "official edition." Write us for prices and full information.

MISSISSIPPI DECISIONS.

1820 to 1909.

A complete set of Mississippi Reports (down to 1909) consists of:

Freeman's Chancery, 1 vol.

Smedes & Marshall's Chancery, 1 vol.

Walker, 1 vol.

Howard, 7 vols.

Smedes & Marshall, 14 vols.

Mississippi, vols. 23 to 91.

Many of the early volumes of the Mississippi Reports, however, have long been out of print, and are very scarce and expensive. This situation has worked the greatest inconvenience to the bench and bar for years past, and, in recognition of the general demand for a new and complete edition of these Reports, we have undertaken the publication of a complete and annotated Reprint of the Mississippi Reports, to cover the following volumes: Freeman's Chancery; Smedes & Marshall's Chancery; Walker (1 Miss.); Howard (2–8 Miss.); Smedes & Marshall (9–22 Miss.); and Mississippi, vols. 23–63—a total of 65 original volumes, to be bound in 31 books, beginning with vol. 63 and working backward. Everything in the original Reports, including the paging, will be preserved. Full annotations will be added, showing where each case has been subsequently cited by the Mississippi Supreme Court, as well as prior and subsequent reports of the same case, and also showing the disposition of each case that has gone to the Supreme Court of the United States. Annotations to the Century Digest will also be made, showing, in connection with each case, the exact places in the Century Digest where the cognate authorities have been collected and compared, thus bringing together all the law applicable to any particular case. References to the annotations in the American Decisions and American Reports will also be added. This Reprint will be sold in complete sets only. Books 17 to 31 are now published, covering vols. 34 to 63 Mississippi. Detailed information regarding this Reprint will be furnished on request.

The Southern Reporter, 48 vols., contains all Mississippi decisions subsequent to vol. 63, and all decisions for the last 22 years of Alabama, Florida, and Louisiana. The tables of cross-citations furnished with the Southern make it a simple matter to find the cases, even if cited by the State Report page and volume. The Southern is the only medium through which all of the current Mississippi decisions may be had, and which furnishes them promptly. Write for price and detailed information.

New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, Washington, and Wyoming, and all decisions of Arizona and Oklahoma. The tables of crosscitations furnished with the Pacific make it a simple matter to find the cases, even if cited by the State Report page and volume. The test may be oral or written, or partly oral and partly written, and shall embrace questions on the subjects selected by the board. If the board favors admission, it will so signify to the Supreme Court; but, if not, the rejected applicant shall not be allowed re-examination for three months.

Admission of Attorneys from Other Jurisdictions.

An attorney who has been admitted to practice in another state, and who has practiced therein for one year, shall offer, by his affidavit, proof of such admission and pursuit of his profession, and of the prescribed period of study for one year in this state, and shall then be permitted to undergo the examination of the board. An attorney residing in an adjoining state, upon compliance with above rule, may, without change of residence, be admitted upon proof that he intends to maintain an office in this state.

New York Chancery, 32 vols., 1814-1848.

New York Appeals, 191 vols., 1847-1909.

It also contains all decisions for the last 24 years of Illinois, Indiana, Massachusetts, and Ohio. The tables of cross-citations furnished with the Northeastern make it a simple matter to find the cases, even if cited by the State Report page and volume.

There have been and still are, a number of lower courts of record, and of appellate jurisdiction, such as the Supreme Court, Superior Court, Court of Common Pleas, etc. The decisions of these courts have been reported in part in a heterogeneous mass of official and unofficial reports. These are usually cited by the names of the Reporters, and are collectively classed as Supreme, Practice and Code, Superior, Common Pleas, and Criminal Reports. The tabulated list is too long to include here, but we will furnish a catalogue in which these are set forth, on request. In 1888 we commenced the publication of the New York Supplement, which now has 113 vols. set we have reported in full, systematically and promptly, all decisions of these inferior courts of record, including all the decisions as reported in some 250 vols. of the official and unofficial reports above referred to, and nearly 7,000 additional decisions, which have been either entirely omitted from the State Reports, or reported only as mems. The New York Supplement is supplied with tables which make it a perfect and convenient substitute for the State Reports.

We will be pleased to quote prices and furnish full information regarding these Reporters on request.

Term of Study.

Each applicant for admission must have pursued a regular course of study of the law for at least two years, either in the office of a member of the bar engaged in active practice in this state, or in some reputable law school in the United States, or partly in one and partly in the other. The above fact must be supported by the affidavit of the secretary or dean of the law school attended by him, or of the attorney in whose office he studied, and, in the latter case, the affidavit shall state that such attorney was, during such period, regularly engaged in the practice of law in this state. In no case will applicants be admitted to examination unless it shall appear that they have pursued a course of study equivalent to that required of candidates for graduation in the law department of the State University. WASHINGTON DECISIONS.

1854 to 1909.

A complete set of Washington Reports (down to 1909) consists of:

Washington Territorial, 3 vols., 1854–1879. Washington State, 49 vols., 1880–1909.

All decisions of Washington subsequent to vol. 1, Territorial, are reported in Pacific Reporter, 97 vols. The Washington Code was adapted from that of California, and the decisions of that state are therefore followed closely by the Washington courts. The Pacific Reporter contains all decisions of California for the last 26 years, representing about 75 per cent. of all decisions, and including nearly 2,000 that have been omitted from the State Reports and can only be found in the Pacific. The set also contains all decisions of Colorado, Idaho, Kansas, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, and Wyoming for the last 26 years, and all of Arizona and Oklahoma, and costs about one-fifth as much as the corresponding State Reports. The tables of cross-citations furnished with the Pacific make it a simple matter to find the cases, even if cited by the State Report page and volume. The Pacific is usually regarded as indispensable in Washington. We will be pleased to quote prices, and furnish full information.

General Education.

Although no certain degree of preliminary education is required, the applicant shall state in his petition the extent of the same.

Term of Study.

The candidate shall have studied law at least three years, either in a law school in the United States or under the supervision of a practicing attorney or judge of this state, or partly under one system and partly under the other, and the petition shall show where and with whom such legal studies have been pursued, and the works read in the course of study.

Examination-Regulations-Scope-Fee.

The petition shall be directed to the Supreme Court, and shall contain statements as to applicant's name, place and date of birth, and, if foreign-born, the facts showing that he is a citizen of the United States, places and periods of residence and occupation during the last preceding five years, and names and addresses of five persons acquainted with applicant during said period. Such petition shall be referred to the Board of Examiners, consisting of five members of the bar. The examination shall be upon written questions prepared by said board, and may be conducted by one or more examiners, or the district judge in the district or county of applicant's residence, or some person selected by the board. The questions and answers shall be returned to the board, who shall report its findings thereon to the Supreme Court. If the petitioner's abilities are sufficient, a license shall be granted by the court and the oath of attorney administered. The petition shall show the place or places where applicant has practiced law in such other state, and the period of practice in each place; whether applicant has been admitted in more than one state or territory, and, if so, the name of each such state or territory, together with the dates of admission, as near as possible, also the period of practice and the place of residence in each such state or territory. Petition must also be accompanied by the names and addresses of five persons, preferably judges or members of the bar of such other state or territory. The admission fee is $10.

Miscellaneous.

Application to be examined must be made to the clerk, who will refer the application to the board. A regular meeting of the Board of Examiners is held at the capital on the second day of each regular term of the Supreme Court in each year. Special meetings may be held from time to time as the board may determine. In case the applicant prefers to be examined at some place other than the capital, his petition should state the reasons therefor. Whenever it is made to appear to the satisfaction of the court that it will be a hardship, owing to distance, expense, or otherwise, for the applicant to attend upon a session of the board at the capital, the examination may be conducted in the district or county where the applicant resides, by the district judge or some other competent person to be selected by the board.

The Purpose of a Digest.

When the lawyer learns from his client the history of the transaction regarding which his aid is sought, he usually analyzes the statement, reducing it to its lowest terms, and knows in a general way the legal principle the facts involve. To merely recognize a general principle, however, is insufficient in his work as a practicing lawyer. For example, suppose the facts related involve the rule, "General appearance waives defect in process." To know of this general rule is not enough. He must know what acts of the parties constitute a general appearance, and must learn how courts have applied the rule to like facts. So to be fully equipped to serve his client, he must know where and how to find the precedents showing such application.

A general rule or principle of law, like general expressions regarding lay matters, implies nothing certain, nothing specific and can only be construed generally.

The application of the principle to the facts of the case is generally the only difficulty. The principle itself is fixed and well understood, while a small circumstance attending an act may change the application. So a knowledge of the law is to a great degree a knowledge of precedents. In fact, the main use of authorities or decided cases is the recognition of some principle and its application to the particular facts involved, which the court can follow out in deciding the question before it.

It is cases showing the application of the legal principle, and not the principle itself, which the courts of to-day most demand.

Therefore it is not in search for the principles of law the practicing lawyer spends so much time, but to find cases showing how the principles have been applied; and in his search for them he must use the facts as a guide, because the application arises out of the facts, and not vice versa.

Legal publications coming under the category of text-books and books of like nature deal with the law in a general way and are confined largely to abstract statements of principles, and to these the author appends the authorities to which he refers; but it is impossible to tell, without reference to a Digest or the authorities themselves, to what extent or in what particular way the cases cited support the proposition in the text. Text-books and encyclopædias do not give the facts in each case, and therefore cannot show the particular application of the principle involved.

If the lawyer needs to refresh his memory regarding a principle of law, however, then he should resort to these publications as a valuable aid; but, if he desires to know how the principle has been applied to particular facts, he should resort to Digests, which, if properly constructed, give in concrete form the essential facts and show the application or holding of the court in each case.

It does not suffice the lawyer in his particular case to learn: "The right to defend one's self continues as long as an unjust attack." This principle existed long before courts expressed it. What he wants to learn regarding his case in hand is: Have such acts of parties as he is prepared to show been construed by any courts to be "an unjust attack"? Are there any precedents? And to learn this with certainty he must resort to Digests, which give the facts.

Reports and Digests as Needed in a Private Law Library.

REPORTS AND REPORTERS.

Judge Dillon says in his work on the Laws and Jurisprudence of England and America: "The law, as a result of the ever-occurring changes in the condition of society and in legislation, is constantly changing. The old is, to a great extent, so well settled and known as to have become elementary and indisputable. It is the new that is unknown, and needs interpretation and definition. And as between the old reports and the new, the experience of every lawyer and judge is, I think, to the effect that the new are the most useful because the most needed."

The current supreme court decisions of all the states are published in two editions. In each state the local reports are published as a local series under the auspices of the state. This is commonly known as the "official edition." The current decisions of each state are also published in seven Reporters, making up the National Reporter System. In the Reporters the cases are published first in weekly advance sheets, which are afterwards replaced by bound volumes for permanent use.

In building up a library of reports, three considerations 'should be borne in mind: To obtain the books most useful; to buy in such a manner that subsequent purchases will not duplicate the first; and to obtain the books with the smallest expenditure possible. The National Reporter System fulfills all these requirements. The National Reporter System contains the late cases, and it is far better to buy a set of the Reporter System, and thus obtain the later decisions of the whole country back to a given point, than to buy the entire reports of any one state, the early volumes of which contain little that has not been affirmed in the later reports, or that is not obsolete or so well settled as to be indisputable. The one exception to this rule is in favor of the decisions of one's own state. The set a lawyer first buys is generally that containing the supreme court decisions of his own state, and, as he wishes to increase his library, he can add other reports as he is prepared to do so. If he wishes the reports of any state in full, he can buy the early volumes to the date when their publication commences in the Reporter System at a material saving over the cost of an entire set. The difference in cost between buying the official reports and obtaining the same cases in the Reporter System is well illustrated in the Northeastern Reporter. The Northeastern Reporter, vols. 1 to 86, contains all the opinions in the following official reports:

VOLUMES PUBLISHED AND UNPUBLISHED.

Massachusetts Reports,	139-198	incl.,	60	vols.
New York Court of Appeals Reports,	99-192	incl,	94	"
Ohio State Reports,	43- 78	incl.,	36	"
Indiana Supreme Court Reports,	102 - 170	incl.,	69	"
Indiana Appellate Court Reports,	1- 42	incl.,	42	"
Illinois Supreme Court Reports,	114 –234	incl.,	121	"

and enough cases not yet reported in the state reports to make three volumes more.

The price of the Northeastern Reporter, vols. 1 to 86, and Blue Book, is $228.00. The buyer of the Northeastern is therefore purchasing books at a price equivalent to 54 cents per volume for State Reports. Subscription editions of reports, two volumes in one, at the rate of $1 per original volume, have occasionally been placed on the market and regarded as great bargains, but the Reporters are even cheaper than this. Those who have bought continuations of the reports of the states included in the Northeastern Reporter since the latter began publication have paid the following prices:

Mass.,	139–198$	156.60
N. Y.,	99-192	146.00
Ind.,	102-170	258.75
Ind. App.,	1- 42	157.50
Ohio,	43- 78	83.25
III.,	114-234	342.75

$1,144.85

These prices are those at which the books are sold outside the state. On some of the sets a lower price is made to attorneys within the state. But compare this price with the price of the Northeastern Reporter, which covers everything in these volumes of state reports. One could have bought not only the Northeastern Reporter, but more than half the decisions of all the other courts of the United States during the same period, for that money, if he had bought the Reporters instead of the State Reports.

Since entering upon their work, the state courts of last resort of the United States have filed opinions which have made about 5,100 volumes of the official reports. About 2,500 of these are covered by the Reporter System, and about 2,600 were published prior thereto. On account, however, of the fact that the early volumes of all State Reports are smaller than those now published, and that the briefs of counsel were formerly very fully reported, whereas now they are either omitted entirely or very much condensed, the 2,500 volumes of State Reports covered by the Reporter System contain fully one-half of the total number of the decisions. The price of complete sets of the seven State Reporters to this time (February 26, 1909) is now only $1,679.00. Fully one-half of the Supreme Court Reports of all the states can be bought, therefore, for $1,679.00, or at the rate of sixty-seven cents per original volume of the State Reports. This, moreover, is the later and therefore the more necessary half. Could the 2,600 volumes be bought at the same rate, the entire case law of the United States would be within the reach of all prosperous lawyers. This cannot now be done, but there is a downward tendency in the price of all reports. Quite a number can be bought for $3 per volume and some for less. Every few years some hitherto expensive set is reprinted, and there is reason to think that the cost of the 2,600 volumes prior to the Reporter System will grow steadily less. The low prices established by the National Reporter System have done more than anything else towards reducing the prices of the official series.

For further information along this line, send for our circular "A Lawyer's Choice of Reports."

DIGESTS OF REPORTS.

Few lawyers beginning practice are able to buy all the reports they need. It is no less necessary, however, to consult them constantly. This must be done largely through digests. The American Digest System, embracing the Century, Decennal, and Current American Digests, furnishes a lawyer with an abstract of every case decided by the American courts of last resort. Through this system a lawyer can ascertain, without leaving his office, if there is a case in any volume of American Reports bearing on the one he has in hand. The advantage of having the entire case law of the United States arranged under a uniform classification plan is very evident. For instance, the scheme of classification in the local digests of State Reports is the same in hardly any two. If a lawyer commences his investigations by examining decisions in the Massachusetts Reports, he has to spend some time in learning the classification used in the digest of that set. If he then turns to a digest of New York Reports, he finds the method of arrangement different, and more time must be spent in learning the classification of that digest. With every other digest that he takes up, he has to repeat the same experience. On the other hand, having once learned the classification scheme of the American Digest System he can examine the authorities in as many states as he chooses without the annoyance of having to turn from one scheme of classification to another, as is necessary in using state digests. Another advantage is in the method of covering late decisions. The Century Digest comes down to 1896, and the Decennial covers from 1897 to 1906, thus giving a digest of American Cases from 1658 to 1906, under two alphabetical arrangements. The Decennial is supplemented by the current American Digests, which are identical in classification plan with the Century and Decennial Digests, thus giving a digest of the later cases as fast as they are published. There is no system of issuing supplements to the different state digests, and it is practically impossible to get at the late decisions of any state excepting through these current volumes of the American Digest.

In large towns where law libraries are found, a lawyer with the American Digest System has on his shelves a digest of every American decision in every library, and the preliminary work of ascertaining where an authority can be found on any proposition of law can be done without leaving his office. In towns in which there are no law libraries, but in which there are many reports scattered through many law offices, a lawyer with the American Digest System has a digest of the law library of every other member of the bar, and can learn through it, without leaving his office, whether or not there are any cases in any of the books in his brother lawyers' offices which bear on the one which he is investigating. If he has no access to a public library, or to the reports in private libraries, he can obtain from the publishers a copy of any decision cited from the Reporter System for 25 cents, and typewritten copies of decisions prior to the Reporter System at a small cost. Thus until he can have in his office the reports he needs, the American Digest System is the greatest aid to using those to which he has access elsewhere. Furthermore, the digest paragraphs are in themselves so full and clear that reference to the reports will often be found unnecessary. The Digests are a condensation of the Reports.

A Key-Number Guide to all the Authorities.

A new device which effectually and finally solves the "case law problem."

Original—Exclusive—Revolutionary

The practitioner's case law problem, which is always with him, is to find from the 700,000 reported cases the authorities directly applicable to the particular legal questions in hand.

Your problem.

The case law problem for the law publisher is to help the practitioner to find these few authorities from the many, most readily, most easily, and most exhaustively. Our problem

Both problems are now solved by a new device we have worked out for making the wealth of the American Digest System available in connection with the Reporter System, producing what is in effect a system of universal and specific annotations.

Both solved.

This scheme was never possible before, because the material was not available until the American Digest System was perfected.

Now first possible.

C6786a

(172)

All the past acisions assified.

In the American Digest System, the points of law in the 700,000 reported cases are extracted, carefully formulated, and arranged in 112,000 groups, each one of which forms, in effect, a specific "note" or collection of the authorities on some particular point of law.

And now the current decisions also. The classification followed in the Digest System is now extended to the Reporter System. Every point in every new decision is classified by experts for the American Digest System before it is published in the Reporters. Its place in the Digest classification is then editorially indicated by the uniform section number, recently adopted in connection with the Decennial and the current American Digests. This key number will hereafter be affixed to every Reporter headnote.

The key number.

The key number thus works backwards and forwards, making the American Digest annotations perpetual, receiving from day to day the new authorities as they come from the courts, and making them instantly accessible to the searcher through the talismanic number.

The future cases.

No other system can possibly accomplish this. No other form of annotations made to-day can carry with them an unerring reference forward through the reports and digests to all future cases in point.

Since these "Universal Annotations" cover all points of law and include all the authorities, past, present and future, the only remaining question is how to find the annotations which are desired at any given time out of the 112,000. This is accomplished readily and effectively in three ways:

How to use the annotations.

1. Through the topical American Digest classification with the aid of the cross-references, and by the descriptive word method. (A "bill of particulars" will be furnished on request.) By this means, the digest annotations can be quickly found by their subject-matter.

First way.

2. Through the Table of Cases published in connection with the Decennial Digest. Any single case becomes "the key to all cases in point." The title of the known case in the Table leads the searcher directly to the "section" in the Century or Decennial Digest from which earlier and later cases in point can be traced mechanically by following the references.

Second way.

3. Through the annotations in the National Reporter System. For the past seven years, the Reporters have been annotated by references to the Century Digest. From November, 1908, they will also be annotated with the key number of the Decennial Digest, as described above. Every reported case will thus be directly and immediately connected with all the pertinent annotations throughout the entire American Digest System.

Third way.

In a word:

The Reporter System will henceforth add to all the other points of superiority of its service this supreme advantage: Every point in every case will be keyed to the American Digest System, connected automatically and immediately by a simple and positive annotation with all past and future decisions on the same point.

What more can be desired. All the authorities classified and arranged in that great storehouse, the American Digest System.

Each new case annotated to all the authorities (past and future) at the time it is reported.

And all with no increase in cost.

This new feature is added to the Reporters without increasing the cost to subscribers by one cent. We simply want you to understand it and use it.

Do You Know How to Make a Brief?

Hon. Horace E. Deemer, of the Supreme Court of Iowa, says:—

"Brief making is an art in which there are few masters. I have been amazed at the helplessness of law students, and even of lawyers when they go into a library to search for authorities. A good lawyer is one who knows where to look for the law; and after he has found it knows what to do with it. Law schools should teach their students how to do these things."

Hon. John H. Stiness, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Rhode Island, says:—

"One who does not know where and how to find the law will not know the law. One who cannot state his points in a clear and orderly way will fail to make an impression and to give the aid he desires. Brief making, therefore, is a most essential and practical accomplishment for a lawyer. Special instruction in brief making is both desirable and important."

The need of a text-book serving as a guide to students and young lawyers in the investigation of authorities, showing the proper way of using the decisions and statutes, explaining the purpose, relative value, and utility of the different classes of law books, the best way to search out what may be wanted from the bewildering mass of legal publications, and how to use the matter at hand properly and effectively in preparing brief or argument, has been apparent for years.

By the co-operation of a number of the best writers that could be secured, each experienced in his particular branch of the work, it became possible to publish a book of this kind that would be of practical use for law students and law school instruction.

The Hornbook Series.

The Hornbooks form a series of separate elementary textbooks on the principal divisions of the law, and are designed for the use of both the law student and the practitioner. Every volume is a complete treatise in itself, and all are built upon the same general plan, in which certain special and original features are made prominent.

These distinguishing features are:

- (1) The black-letter text, in numbered paragraphs, which in itself constitutes a complete synopsis of the law of the subject. This text is distinguished typographically from the subsidiary text by being printed in large type. It runs through the book, forming an outline or framework of the subject which is of particular value to the law student for the purposes of review.
- (2) The subsidiary text or commentary, which consists of a more extended presentation and discussion of the principles in the preceding black-letter text. This commentary follows every black-letter paragraph or group of paragraphs, is printed in ordinary type, and comprises the body of the book. The typographical separation of these two parts enables the student to obtain, in the first place, a general, comprehensive grasp of the subject as a whole, and of the relation of one part to another, and, by re-reading in connection with the more extended commentary, to fix the details clearly in mind.
- (3) The notes and authorities, which consist of additional explanations and illustrations of the text, referring the student to all the leading and late cases where the principles have been discussed and applied.
 - (4) Uniformity in plan, form, and price.

As to the Price.

It was a good deal of an experiment to fix the price of these text-books at $3.75, including delivery charges. They were to be regular octavo text-books, and the experience of publishers has been that the uncertainties of the market with a new book could be safely met only by making the price $5 or $6. Of course, if a large circulation were assured in advance, the publishers would be warranted in coming nearer to the mark which lawyers would like to fix. Just there was the problem. We determined to meet it by taking the circulation for granted, fixing the low price, and then making the books so irresistible that the circulation would have to come.

Authors and Editors.

The authors have been very carefully selected, with a view to their special fitness for handling the particular subject intrusted to them. No one of them has been chosen simply because of a name. Some of them have already established reputations as writers, some have won their literary reputations with these books, but in all cases their work has undergone the most critical examination in our editorial corps, their citations being verified, and, when necessary, their work revised, to make it conform to the severe standard of this Series. If, after publication, criticism shows any weak places, a new edition is promptly brought out. All this lessens the chances which a purchaser takes in buying an isolated book. Here the publishers' responsibility has not been confined to the paper and press work.

On Approval.

We sell our text-books, including the Hornbook Series, subject to examination for 30 days. We want our customers to be satisfied. We believe they like to judge from the book itself, rather than from the most honest circular. We know our books bear testing. We are well satisfied with the results of this plan of selling; and so, apparently, are our customers.

Owen's Law & Quizzer

(THIRD) EDITION)

By
WILBER A. OWEN,
LL. M.,
Of the Ohio bar.

HIS is a systematic review of the fundamental principles underlying twenty-seven of the most important legal subjects, by means of 3,000 carefully planned Questions and Answers. It is intended primarily for the use of law students in review work, and in preparing for examination for degrees in law colleges, or for admission to the bar, but is also serviceable to the lawyer who wants to refresh his mind as to the exact scope and bearing of some legal principle.

A full and detailed index makes reference easy.

Frequently questions involving abstract legal principles come to an attorney's mind while at home evenings, away from his library. If deferred till the next day, they are apt to be forgotten or crowded aside. With Owen's Quizzer in the house, however, it is easy to get at once a concise statement of the principles involved, and to fix a clear idea of the point in mind.

HE first edition of Owen's Law Quizzer was published some years ago and at once proved its usefulness and popularity. It has now been revised and enlarged by the author, five new chapters added, and references inserted to the volumes of the Hornbook Series covering the same subjects.

3,000 Questions and Answers,

Covering in a thorough and systematic manner all of the fundamental and underlying principles of the following twenty-five legal subjects:

Agency.
Bailments.

BLACK'S LAW DICTIONARY.

By HENRY CAMPBELL BLACK, M. A.,

Author of Black's "Constitutional Law," "Judgments," "Tax Titles," etc.

The work has been recognized as the most convenient and comprehensive one-volume dictionary of the law. It contains definitions of the terms and phrases of American and English jurisprudence, ancient and modern, including the principal terms of international, constitutional, and commercial law, together with a collection of legal maxims, and also numerous select titles from the civil law and other foreign systems.

It is chiefly required in a dictionary that it should be comprehensive. Its value is impaired if any single word that may reasonably be sought within its covers is not found there. But this comprehensiveness is possisible (within the compass of a single volume) only on condition that whatever is foreign to the true function of a lexicon be rigidly excluded. The work must therefore contain nothing but the legitimate matter of a dictionary, or else it cannot include all the necessary terms.

These considerations have been kept constantly in view in the preparation of BLACK'S LAW DICTIONARY. Of the most esteemed law dictionaries heretofore in use, each will be found to contain a very considerable number of words not defined in any other. None is quite comprehensive in itself. Mr. Black has made it his aim to include all these terms and phrases here, together with some not elsewhere defined.

AN INTERESTING COMPARISON.

The comprehensiveness of Black's Dictionary of Law is shown by the following comparative statement of the number of titles under the letter A in several law dictionaries in common use:

Abbott's,		•		286
Anderson's,			•	379
Jacob's,		•	•	500
Rapalje & Lawrence's,	•		•	746
Bouvier's,		•		847
BLACK'S,	•			1801

The other letters are in about the same proportion

Prof. J. B. Thayer, Harvard University.

Much the best law dictionary that I have seen.

Prof. E. McClain, University of Iowa.

I feel that I can highly commend the work.

Prof. W. O. Harris, Louisville Law School.

I find it the most comprehensive work yet published.

Prof. N. Green, Cumberland University.

It is up with the times, convenient in shape, and admirably suited for law students.

Prof. Henry Wade Rogers, Northwestern University.

It represents a vast amount of work, and has been done with great care and precision.

Prof. Andrew J. Cobb, University of Georgia.

After careful examination of Black's Law Dictionary, I have to say that in my opinion it is indispensable to the practitioner, and invaluable to the student.

Prof. C. A. Graves, Washington & Lee University.

It seems especially strong in the definitions of ancient words and phrases. The plan of the work, as outlined in the preface, is judicious, and has been consistently adhered to.

There are three series of "selected cases" now published, each purporting to select the "important cases."

Covering the same period (1905 to date) 2813 cases were "selected" for Lawyers' Reports Annotated. 1853 cases were "selected" for American State Reports. 1747 cases were "selected" for Am. and Eng. Annot. Cases.
